Participate in the 2018 Graduate Research and Discovery Symposium (GRADS)! The GRADS event occurs every year as part of Clemson's Research Week. This year's event will showcase a variety of research and service by graduate students from each of the colleges in the University's Graduate School. The event serves as an opportunity for Clemson’s graduate students to exhibit their work as well as an opportunity for our graduate community to learn what their peers in other fields are researching, creating and producing. You can also win CASH PRIZES for your presentations!

Submitting for GRADS is easy! If you have presented a poster or lecture at a conference in the past, you can submit the same abstract as long as it has not been presented at a previous GRADS event. We will send you a formatted citation after the conference so that you can add it to your resume! If you are interested in participating in GRADS, please fill out the following form by February 16th: https://goo.gl/forms/2yp0xak9PaynxmK2
